Two downtown restaurants are helping to fight hunger in the community.

Brownstone Restaurant at 118 Victoria St. and Hot House Bistro at 438 Victoria St. are participating in a provincewide campaign called Eat to Beat Hunger, in which their patrons can add a donation for the food bank while enjoying their restaurant meal.

The campaign runs today through to Nov. 30.

Restaurants throughout B.C. are participating in the campaign through their link to the B.C. Restaurant and Foodservices Association.

"It's a great chance for not only the industry, but the public to make an impact on hunger in the province," said Ian Tostenson, president of the association.

Throughout the campaign, diners will have the opportunity to donate to the Kamloops Food Bank after their meal, either by cash or by adding it to their bill.

Diners will be entered into a grand prize draw for a pack of $25 gift certificates from the participating restaurants.
